British Ministry Plans Concessions To Indian People

Federal Council conflicts with the Council of State and the Governor-General agree with the latter. In these circumstances the Viceroy should be empowered to restore the expenditure by law decree of law. There will be no dymarchy, the Executive Council being the one body with a majority of members responsible to the Legislature.

As the time comes for the transfer of reserved subjects to the jurisdiction of the Indians, the number of popular members will increase, and the reserved subjects will automatically come under the power of the popular members. When all the reserved subjects are transferred, the leader of the House will be called the Prime Minister, and the Executive Council will become Cabinet members with the title of ministers.

This, it is believed, would satisfy Gandhi's demand for "the substance of independence."

CONDITIONS IN ARMY

4. Certain changes are also contemplated in the Indianization of the army. At present Indian officers are restricted to eight units. It is proposed that these would serve

TO STUDY LOSS ON LOGAN CROP

SHRIVELLING OF BERRIES, BEFORE RIPENING, TO RECEIVE THOUGHT OF EXPERTS

Systematic Effort Will Be Made to Tackle Cause of Injury

There is hope that the trouble that has been experienced for some years by the growers of loganberries, whereby considerable loss was experienced by the shrivelling of part of the crop, and the subsequent dropping of these berries may be overcome. The matter is now being investigated by Mr. W. R. Foster, M.S.C., who was recently appointed provincial entomologist.

Mr. Foster, who makes his headquarters at the Experimental Farm at Sidney, through the co-operation of the Dominion authorities is being assisted in his investigations by Dr. W. Newton, the pathologist of the farm, in the investigations into this disease. Mr. W. Downes, Dominion entomologist, is also lending every assistance possible in the solution.

There have been investigations carried out in this connection in the past, but on a very systematic plan. The efforts now are being centred in an endeavor to ascertain just what is the cause of the trouble, and what known, method of combating it will assuredly be found.

The attacks upon the loganberries are declared not greater this year than they were in former years. There is, however, rather a severe loss owing to the inroads, and it is desirable to get at the cause, and they are making the best of the situation.

The reports from the Mainland indicate that there will not be over a half-crop this year. On Vancouver Island the situation is reported to be much better, and there is the prospect that the yield will be very good.

which public hearings will be held by the Works Committee, at which all objections to the measure will be received.

There will be no meeting of the City Council on Monday, partly as the Mayor and some of the aldermen will be absent from the city, and also because the council is entering on its summer time schedule for nightly meetings. The next regular meeting of the council will be on July 7, but will not affect either of the developments before the city at this time in the two by-laws.

The parks committee last week made progress on the city's plan of co-operation with the Summer playground supervision plan, and is now awaiting the completion of the playgrounds budget to proceed with the next step, which will be the appointment of the supervisors and playtime instructors at three city parks, Beacon Hill, Victoria West and Central Park are the three selected for the operation of the plan this year.

Final touches to the marine view walk around the Dallas Road are to be added shortly, and will provide a five-foot walk from Menzies to Cook Streets along the seashore. The new

Pygmies of Africa Are Scrutinized

"I am going back," she said. "But this time not alone. I'll have companions. Scientists. There is much for us to do."

Mrs. Akeley, who was the first wife of the late Carl Akeley, explorer and naturalist, spent five months in the pygmy country. She had planned to stay longer, but constant torrential rains made this inadvisable.

ADVENTURE WITH BUFFALO

It was during one of these periods of encampment that Mrs. Akeley had her encounter with the buffalo. She was out shooting herself a dinner. A herd of killer buffalo came crashing down upon her in response.

"They are little devils, those buffalo. I set myself behind the leader of the rush. But spurt! My ammunition was dead. No good. I was helpless."

"The ten saved me. The buffalo went charging by on either side of it. It divided them and saved me. The buffalo swept on past. That ammunition? I found that it was twenty years old."

The crazed native who tried to kill her was a boy.

"About ten years old, perhaps," Mrs. Akeley explained. "For days he had followed me, everywhere. Always pointing at me in a curious way. And then he tried to knife me. I turned just in time to save my life."

This boy, said Mrs. Akeley, had the conviction that if she were dead he would become white. So he sharpened his knife, and got ready to carve the explorer into small portions.

The pygmies have no guns. They do their killing with bows and arrows and poisoned spears, and

MR. G. G. McGEER IS CHALLENGED

Mr. H. J. Barber Invites Opponent to Take Stand Against Platform of Liberal Party

PORT MOODY, B.C., June 28.—
Mr. H. J. Barber, of Milliwick, Conservative member for Fraser Valley in the House of Commons for the past four years, at a large meeting at Port Moody last night challenged Mr. G. G. McGeer, K.C., to take a stand for or against the platform of the Liberal party.
This so-called Farmer candidate is talking freight rates, said Mr.
Barber. "What the people of this valley would like to know is where Mr. McGeer stands on the dumping of New Zealand hares and dairy products into this country. What does he stand when the bread and butter of the Fraser Valley farmer is in jeopardy?"
"I challenge Mr. McGeer to come right out for or against the Government of Mackenzie King," declared Mr. Barber. "I am a Conservative, proud of my leader and my leader of the Conservative party and its fine traditions. My party stands for safeguarding the homes and liberties of our own Canadian people."
Referring to the oil refineries, woodworking industries, foundries and other industries in the loco and Port Moody districts within the riding, Mr. Barber said: "Our policy is to protect these industries; to manufacture our raw materials within Canada; to seek markets at home and throughout the world for these Canadian products."
Mr. Barber was supported on the platform by Mr. F. G. T. Lucas, Vancouver barrister. Mr. Lucas referred to the amount of money paid out of the treasury of British Columbia to Mr. McGeer for legal services in carrying on a freight rates campaign.
Mr. Barber is making a strenuous campaign in the Western areas of this riding, the meeting at Port Moody being the first large rally of the Conservative campaign.

WARD FIVE

Plunkett residing in Ward Five are for the coming election. Music and light refreshments will be provided.

as possible will take advantage of this opportunity to help the candidate.

Magistrate: "You were quietly minding your own business, making no disturbance whatever, when an officer came and threatened to strike you if you did not accompany him to the police station?"
Prisoner: "Yes, your Honor."
Magistrate: "Seems very strange."
Prisoner: "What is your business?"
Prisoner: "I'm a burglar, sir."

THE BRIDGING OF SEYMOUR NARROWS

The bridging of Seymour Narrows to provide road connection between Vancouver Island and the Mainland is an entirely feasible scheme. The series of bridges required, on the basis of what equally long spans have been built for elsewhere, would not cost more than $6,000,000. It is unquestionable that the provision of this highway would give a tremendous fillip to the development of Vancouver Island; in fact, no road transportation facility that is on the tapis is more likely to benefit all communities in this part of British Columbia.

The dream of a physical and permanent link between Island and Mainland has been entertained for a long time by those who have the interests of Vancouver Island at heart. It has been impossible to arouse any interest in the subject on the part of the railway companies. Conditions, however, in the traffic world are changing. More and more traffic is being carried on the highways by motor buses. Something in the nature of a revolution in the carriage of trade is in process of being effected, and, with the development that is going on, the Seymour Narrows connection has assumed an entirely different aspect.

It is no longer necessary to look to the railway companies for support for a bridging scheme, unless, indeed, they take time by the forelock and engage in the growing business of transportation by the highways. What is happening in the development of motor transport brings the spanning of Seymour Narrows by a motor road well within the realm of practical politics. It is a proposal which should be taken up enthusiastically by every community on Vancouver Island, by all public-spirited organizations in our midst, in fact, by everybody who wants to bring about more flourishing conditions in this quarter of British Columbia.

Road connection with the Mainland would in every probability quadruple the number of tourists who visit Vancouver Island within a very few years. It would mean the building of new arterial roads in the Butte Inlet area and the linking up of those with existing main highways of the province. Ultimately there is no reason why Vancouver Island, by way of a motor road over Seymour Narrows, should not have direct connection with the great Peace River country and share in the volume of trade which is expected to flow from that area through the ports of the Pacific Coast.

Viewed from any angle, and in the light of modern conditions, the Seymour Narrows connection is a project that should be pushed ahead by all feasible means. The Provincial Government could not invest money in any scheme of public works more certain of producing lucrative results than that of providing a road connection between Vancouver Island and the Mainland.

SPRITUAL LABORATORIES

Because his belief is that there is no central theme governing the course of human society probably led Carl Heath to write his book—"The Free Spirit." He admits that modern society is chaotic, that it lacks direction, wholeness and authority. He concedes the condition is not unwholesome because there is a widespread realization of the unscientific and misleading authorities, and he believes that society is on the path of a resolute search "for a new and integral idea of what Goethe spoke of as a unity of wholeness, goodness and beauty."

Modern society wants reality. Mr. Heath asks, "what then is to penetrate the spirit of man and determine conduct, if religion fail to be realistic also?" He says we may build up the wisest of human organizations from the village school to the League of Nations and the World Court, "but these are ultimately only forms, and no form is going to fulfill our needs. In other words, the insurgency of youth calls for 'as great a love of truth and realism in religion as in every other factor of human life.'"

In answer to the question that he raises Mr. Heath says what is needed "is the sense of a burning reality, the fruit of hard work in the spiritual laboratories, and a resultant inward authority which is the task of religion to accomplish." He prevails, however, that this religion must be, "a not impossible religion for the youth spirit and the modern mind. Essentially it must be a religion that knows no finality in its eternal search for God, and in the progressive realism of its life for human kind."

T.H. WRITING OF NOVELS

Any estimate of novel writing made in respect to one country probably applies approximately to others. There never was such an output of novels as at the present time, and, in proportion to the volume, the standard can hardly be regarded as good. Mr. Shaw Desmond doubts if there are ten first class novelists in Great Britain. There are, however, he says, hundreds of the second class and tens of thousands who are really not novelists at all. Mr. Desmond defines a novelist as a medium. "If he is a great novelist," he says, "he is only that in right of the fact that he is abnormally sensitive that the things which leave unfulfilled the great sanely healthy crowd will tear at his heart-strings, to use an expressive phrase. It is because he is sensitive to impressions, because all those vibrations touch him that do not touch the average man or woman, that he is a great novelist."

Mr. Desmond ventures into the realm of prophecy about the future of the novel. He sees it leaving plot and mere story and venturing more and more towards philosophy. There will be the purely realist novel and the novel of fantasy. In fact, he says, the future novel will be born of stark realism and fantasy. His dictum is that art is art—"It is not reality. The art of the novelist is intensely artificial. The author has to give to his characters that intangible thing called art, if they are to come alive—he has to use artifice. Art is like the wind, no man knows whence it comes or whither it goes." In analyzing the points which go towards the making of a successful novelist Mr. Desmond claims his imagination is not amenable to control of any kind; he is always an anarchist, for the imagination is purely an individual thing and there are no rules for art. "Imagination," he says, "has nothing to do with democracy as we understand it. Imagination is aristocratic now and forever." Mr. Desmond, however, realizes there are bounds to the prophecies about the future. He disclaims any intention of being able to foretell the place that the novel will occupy for if he could tell such a thing he would be able to tell of the future of life itself. "Life and the novel," he says, "are one and the same thing."

"THE OMNISCIENT STATE"

It is a paradox of our civilization that the remedies applied for the ills from which the body politic suffers instead of being panaceas have a tendency to foster the conditions that give rise to complaint. There is a ruinous tendency in progress at the present time in the duties which government is embracing. Public opinion is supporting government in the task to which it has set its shoulders, but, even in times of democracy, it is as true as ever before that sensible men are never the majority of a population.

The evil lies in the effort to make the State omniscient. There is now State interference all round and that means rising taxation, doles and increasing unemployment. Governments would be the last to acknowledge that they are responsible. They think, indeed, that they are the dea ex machina of the times, whereas, in reality, by lack of vision and the reposing of less and less trust in the people themselves, they are fostering the ills they were elected to office to cure. The present political situation which is having its repercussions on all social and economic life recalls Lord Macaulay's view on the progress of society, written exactly a century ago. It appeared in the course of his review of Southey's "Sir Thomas Moore." The excerpt of particular applicability is as follows:

"It is not by the intermeddling of Mr. Southey's-Idol, the omniscient and omnipotent State, but by the prudence and energy of the people, that England has hitherto been carried forward in civilization; and it is to the same prudence and the same energy that we now look with comfort and good hope. Our rulers will best promote the improvement of the nation by strictly confining themselves to their own legitimate duties, by leaving capital to find its most lucrative course, commodities to their fair price, industry and intelligence their natural reward, idleness and folly their natural punishment, by maintaining peace, by defending property, by diminishing the price of law, and by observing strict economy in every department of the State. Let the Government do this; the People will assuredly do the rest."

MR. J. D. FRASER RETIRES

All Victorians who know him, and their name is legion, will wish Mr. J. D. Fraser happiness and long life as he leaves the office of chief train dispatcher of the E. & N. Railway to go into retirement after a lengthy service. It is not only on Vancouver Island that he is so well known and so widely liked, but on the Mainland of British Columbia, where he served for many years in the employ of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company. Mr. Fraser, during his active career on the Island, enjoyed the whole-hearted confidence of all business men and shippers. He inspired both respect and liking among all those with whom he came in contact. His presence up and down the Island in pursuit of his work will be keenly missed. He has earned retirement by a life of loyal service to Canadian Pacific interests.

Note and Comment

By R. B. D.

Great Nature spoke; observant man heard—Pope.

A correspondent writes: "I think it would be both interesting and instructive if you could see your way to give a brief account of the most wonderful of all journeys across the Atlantic in a heavier-than-air machine, made many years ago by two Britishers (Aloock and Brown) in an aeroplane not half as well equipped as those of the present day. Self-boasting is not, thank God! a British characteristic, but that feat was so outstanding that every school boy and girl ought to know the story of that flight. I would bet a substantial sum of money that in every B.C. school, if a sheet of paper and a pencil were given to every scholar, and they were asked to write the name of the first aeroplane transatlantic flier, nineteen out of every twenty would write, Lindbergh! That should not be."

Of course, as everybody ought to know and every girl and boy in our schools ought to be taught, Messrs. Aloock and Brown were the first air navigators to fly across the Atlantic Ocean, north or south, from land to land. That was a notable performance considering the crude equipment of the flying machines of that day compared with the refinements and improvements in the flying machines of the present day. And although the trip was not accomplished without mishap (the daring adventurers were compelled to land in a bog in Ireland), the feat, while it was not followed by so much of the ballyhoo which precedes and succeeds all sporting events, did at least receive some suitable acknowledgment—the pioneers of Atlantic aerial navigation were honored by their Sovereign.

But public opinion is fickle and public memory is short. Time passed, and improvements were made in the aeroplane. Lindbergh, practically an unknown aerial navigator, unheralded and unsung, made a solo flight from the United States to Europe, and landed at the point of his objective without mishap. That feat completely eclipsed the performance of Aloock and Brown. And while the accomplishment of Lindbergh was attended with a certain amount of luck and a tremendous outburst of ballyhoo the daring navigator has proved he is a skillful pilot by sticking to his chosen calling and demonstrating his ability in succeeding feats in the air. Aloock and Brown were content with their one demonstration. They retired and were forgotten. Lindbergh kept himself in the public eye and remains a hero still.

Aerial navigation at the present day is not materially different from water navigation of another and remote day. There was a time when water navigation was in its infancy, when the success or failure of a venture depended upon the idiosyncrasies of the weather. Some of us can remember a time when every published advertisement of the sailing of a ship contained an announcement to this effect: "The fine steam packet (here insert any name that enters the mind) will sail for such and such a port on such and such a day 'wind and weather permitting.' The steamships of the present day are indifferent to the state or the prospects of the weather. They depart and arrive practically as regularly as railway trains, tram cars or buses. The time will undoubtedly come when the airships will take the place of the ships when the distances between points of departure and arrival are short. They do not do it when the distances are thousands of miles. Captain Kingsford-Smith waited many days in Ireland before he considered the conditions favorable for "hopping off" for America.

One of the idiosyncrasies of the weather as it affects aerial navigation is that flying from America to Europe is a simple matter compared with flying from Europe to America. Another idiosyncrasy is that it does not appear to be as difficult to fly from east to west across the South Atlantic as it is to fly from east to west across the North Atlantic. The weather on our eastern coast appears to be more boisterous in its disposition than the weather on the eastern coast of South America. Fog also appears to be as hard for aerial navigators to master as they are dangerous for water navigators to encounter.

Thus the situation actually is that while the future of aerial navigation for comparatively short distances is absolutely assured, there are still some difficult problems to solve before the future of aerial navigation for long distances can be considered even relatively assured—at least where the distances to be covered are over wide stretches of water. Air is a more unstable element than water. If the engine in a ship fails to function (which it seldom does) the ship will float until repairs are made. The engine in a ship cannot hold.

The Colonist is delivered to the principal New York hotels, on order only, by the Long Acre Newspaper Delivery. Order may be given to the Mail Clerk of your hotel or telephone to Longacre, 4640.

steamship fully but one purpose. It supplies the propelling power. The engine in an airship performs two functions. It supplies both the floating and the propelling power, one being contingent upon the other. If the engine of an aeroplane fails to function with regularity, the ship comes down and encounters such perils as are inevitable in a foreign element. One of the most difficult of the problems of long-distance flying is that of carrying a sufficient supply of fuel to meet all possible contingencies.

Letters to the Editor

No letter to the Editor will be inserted except upon the proper signature and address of the writer. This rule admits of no exception.

HAWKER AND MACKENZIE-GRIEVE

Sir,—History repeats itself. Kingsford-Smith arrives at Harbour Grace, Newfoundland, where Harry Hawker and Mackenzie-Grieve took off before the Great War, and almost were successful in beating the Irish coast.

It has always seemed to me that these two flyers stood second to none in flight annals of the world, flying as they did in the early days of aviation, with machines of now antiquated design and consequent unreliability. Let us not forget them.

Hurrah for our ain folk!

J. A. W. FRASER.

Sidney P.O., B.C., June 28, 1930.

BRIDGES

Sir,—Of vast importance and what is certain to attract a great amount of attention in the near future is the question of bridges, and last word is to be decided, as a safeguard against the starting of forest fires.

It will be well to bear in mind that in the building of bridges consideration should only be given to the new way that has been introduced in the last ten years in the construction of suspension bridges, for it is only the right up-to-date modern automobile bridge that will properly meet the requirements of the crossing at Seymour Narrows. Nature has provided on the Vancouver Island shoreline and Maud Island shoreline two of the most important aids that mean the saving of millions of dollars in construction cost. I am making special reference to the rocky formation, which provides proper height at headway for shipping, natural approaches and ample cable anchorage. Such nature has supplied at Seymour Narrows and the other openings.

By way of comparison as to cost, there is only one bridge that approaches very near to our needs in crossing from this Island to the Mainland, and that is the suspension bridge lately opened at Grand Mere, Quebec. It has a roadway of eighteen feet, is about 1,000 feet clear span, and is provided with everything necessary covering the requirements of the latest class of automobile suspension bridge.

The total cost of this bridge is $375,000. There are several monstrous suspension bridges, notably the one over the Cooper River at Charleston, S.C. It is 14,200 feet long and is over twice the amount of bridge we require. We put all the bridges at Seymour Narrows and on end. This particular bridge cost $6,000,000. There is the Great Ambassador Bridge from Windsor to Detroit, nearly two miles long, and that wonderful undertaking, the Montreal Harbor Bridge, over two miles long. This latter cost $12,000,000. It is not the class of bridge required at the Narrows. As a matter of fact, it is about four times the amount of bridging that would be required to join the Island with the Mainland.

Through the kindness of Sir Douglas Fox and the officials of the City of Hull, England, I am placed in possession of (advance) information about the great bridge that is about to be built joining up the east riding of Yorkshire and North Lincolnshire, crossing the River Humber. It is plain to be seen that when it is a matter of bridge building, or any other great engineering undertaking, the fear old British Isles can more than hold their own. The river is 6,000 feet from shore to shore and the bridge will be available to pass under the bridge is provided. The total length of the structure is 17,000 feet, including long approaches; one span is 900 feet in the clear; the remainder are long anchor and subsidiary spans. The total cost is $8,365,000. This splendid structure is fully five times greater than the total amount of bridges put together required by us at the Narrows.

My quotations surely will make it quite clear to anyone that the statement, "proposed" as it was, in the direction that to bridge Seymour Narrows will cost $30,000,000 is one that is entirely devoid of fact. That such talk has been the means of retarding the work in quite evil way. Now that the truth is placed before the people of the Island it is not too late to have everyone familiar with the real conditions in connection with the bridging, and that much accomplished, success in having the work undertaken is sure to follow.

The Rhyming Optimist

By Aline Michaels

THE DREAMER

Life has deemed me much for which I hoped.

The realms of beauty and old ages lore;

Down barren pathways I have some-times groped;

Wherein, it seemed, no foot had trod before.

As lonely and unattended were they

As some bleak house deserted through long years.

A house where stealthily shadows creep by day

And raindrops on the window fall like tears.

Life has been niggard; but, ignoring him,

I fill my days with fancy's shining gold;

Then all my hours sparkle to the brim

And overflow with wealth they cannot hold.

Love has been cold, Joy turned her face aside;

But I, the dreamer, will not be denied!

ALPINE CLUB GOES TO CAMP

ABOUT 40 MEMBERS GO UNDER CANVAS FOR TEN DAYS AT LAKE OF SEVEN HILLS

Sub-Camp Being Placed on Mt. Empress, Where Nightly Bonfire Will Be Visible From Victoria

With a registration of about forty, the Summer camp of the Vancouver Island section of the Alpine Club of Canada, which opens tomorrow at the Lake of the Seven Hills, Sooke Mountains, will go under canvas as the largest camp yet organized at the popular mountain resort.

Mr. C. de Harrison, outings convenor, Mr. K. M. Chadwick, the secretary, and one or two others left for the camp yesterday to get things in readiness. Other members will leave today and tomorrow, so that by tomorrow night there should be a record attendance round the camp fire.

The camp is to continue until Wednesday, July 3, inclusive, and a splendid programme of clinics has been drawn up for the entertainment of the members. A sub-camp is to be erected on Mount Empress, and will be ready tomorrow, so that the more ambitious members can proceed there at once and start their exploration of the district. While the supplies and equipment for the main camp, Lake of the Seven Hills, are as generous as are usually to be found at a big camp, those at the sub-camp will be of a more simple kind, demanded by the fact that it is quite a distance from the main trail, and much more inaccessible.

GOING LIGHT

Silk tents and concentrated foods are being taken over. Every night, commencing on Tuesday, July 1, from 10:30 p.m. to midnight, a great bonfire will be lighted on the top of Mount Empress, and Victoria friends who are interested in the position of the encampments will be able to locate it by looking westward at this time. In the daytime the point may be seen as the highest point on the skyline as seen from the corner of Government and Yates Street, Government and Fort. Six persons will attend the sub-camp every night from July 1 to July 8 inclusive.

The nightly bonfire at the Lake of the Seven Hills will not be visible from Victoria, although the camp is high up in the hills. Some months ago it was decided, as a safeguard against the starting of forest fires, to construct these bonfires on a small island in the lake, and to this end a light bridge was built connecting the island to the mainland. It has added a picturesque feature to the camp surroundings, and the little walk to and from the camp is very attractive.

RADIO OUTFIT

The equipment, which was delivered by pack train at the camp grounds yesterday, includes a radio outfit and gramophone. The pack train, which is in charge of Mr. W. Batten, will go in and out of camp daily, keeping up a fresh supply of vegetables and meats.

Since the last camp a large permanent eating house has been constructed. This is in keeping with the place, being built of logs, and has tables and seats to accommodate forty-four people. The cooking arrangements are also much improved. Three open air cooking stoves having been installed. The storehouse is also of more permanent type. The canoe and rubber boat will be available again, and boating and bathing are certain to be popular.

Following is a list of those who are attending the ten days' camp: Mr. and Mrs. C. de Harrison, Mr. K. Chadwick, Cyril Chave, Miss J. Bell, Mr. Gordon Cameron, A. D'Arcy, W. H. Dougan, Mrs. Hadow, Miss "Bobbie" Hadow, Miss Marjorie Haynes, Miss Mary Haynes, Mr. A. Haynes, Mr. Holland, Mr. and Mrs. Holmes, Mr. J. Holmes, Miss Holmes, Miss G. Johnson, Miss M. Little, Captain Lloyd, Miss E. Melton, R. Mitchell, Miss P. Pendray, Miss P. Pendray, Miss C. Pine, Miss Margaret Watson, Miss K. Wollaston, Mrs. John Nairn, Captain and Mrs. Fleming, Miss E. Loughhead, Miss Hind, Mr. L. Bosch, Miss Vesey, and several visitors.

SERUM SAVES MANY CHILDREN

Health Department Shows How Speedy Treatment Successfully Averts Paralysis

OTTAWA, June 28.—Such tremendous strides have been made in curing infantile paralysis that not one victim in the province of Ontario last year who received serum on the first day of illness was paralyzed. Neither was there any death among them. These facts are contained in a pamphlet published by the Federal Department of National Health, under the supervision of Dr. Helen Macmurchy, chief of the division of child welfare.

Because of the large number of cases of this disease in Canada last year, and particularly in Ontario, the department published the booklet which gives, in clear and understandable language, directions to mothers for taking care of stricken children. Last year there were 624 cases in Canada, of which 588 were in Ontario and ninety in Quebec. No province was free from cases. There were seventy deaths.

LOWEST DEATH RATE

Dr. Macmurchy laid stress on the fact that, although the total number of cases reported last year was the highest for some time, the death rate was lowest. This was due, she claimed, to the use of serum, which will arrest and cure the disease if taken during the early stages. Most cases of infantile paralysis occur in July, August and September, the pamphlet stated.

"Be prepared," it advised as it enumerated the early symptoms. Although a child may be sickly for a day or two, before the disease appears, the early signs often come suddenly. Put the child to bed, the pamphlet advised, and send for a doctor.

Headaches, poor appetite, rather fast pulse and sometimes biliousness—these are the early symptoms. Sometimes the child will complain of pain, sometimes of sore throat. Usually the child is thirsty, flushed and feverish. The neck and back house for the Empress Hotel was being pushed towards completion in the machinery installation stage and represents an investment in the neighborhood of $600,000.

At Government and Bastion Streets, at the northwest corner, in rear of the original Bank of Montreal premises, workmen yesterday had nearly completed the raising of a brick building, preparatory to carrying out a general plan of reconstruction, at a permit cost in the neighborhood of $60,000.

At the same time excavators were at work on the vacant property immediately across Douglas Street, eastward of the City Hall, where J. H. Todd & Sons have announced the immediate erection of a store and office block, to cost $35,000.

Building permits issued at the City Hall during the week were nine in number, and called for new construction and alterations totaling $44,602. Three new dwellings were listed in the residential area of the city.

TWO HUNDRED PEOPLE ATTEND ANNUAL PICNIC

Saanich Reeve, Councillors, Employees, Their Wives and Families Enjoy Day's Outing

PRIZES PRESENTED BY MRS. CROUCH

Reeve, councillors, employees of Saanich Municipality, their wives and families, all three sides their business worries yesterday and took the day off to attend the annual picnic at Whitty's Lagoon, Melchior, B.C. Upwards of two hundred people left the Municipal Hall at Royal Oak in private cars at 9 o'clock yesterday morning and returned late at night with many fond memories of another enjoyable event.

During the afternoon a lengthy programme of sports was run off with events for all, from the little children just able to run, to the veterans of many Summers. While there were many interesting and keenly contested events, the blue ribbon number was the councillors' race. After a thrilling race Councilor Eden breathed the tape a fraction of an inch in front of the councillor, Councilor Borden. Councilor Woods was third and Reeve Crouch fourth.

Great credit is due the officials for the capable and efficient manner in which the arrangements were made and carried out. From the start of the first event until the lengthy sports programme was completed, not a hitch occurred to mar the proceedings.

Mystery Land of Ice Lies Close to Civilization

Major F. V. Longstaff Returns From Visit to Lillooet Country With Report of Great Unexplored Ice Field at Head of Bridge River

The statement that there is within 130 miles of Vancouver a great unexplored icefield, as large as the famous Columbia icefield, will hardly be believed by many city people, who find it difficult to imagine the existence of territory of such character within such short distance of the well-paved streets of civilization.

Yet information to this effect has been brought back by Major F. V. Longstaff, who has just returned from a visit to the Lillooet country. He brings well-authenticated reports of the existence of great icefields, the fringe of which he, and the Swiss guide who accompanied him, saw with the assistance of a telescope from Mt. Ferguson, one of the mountains in the Cascade range. Christian Maier, the guide, has been climbing the Rockies for years, and in his trained judgment the icefield is as large at least as the great Columbia icefield, at the head of the Saskatchewan River.

The discovery has so piqued Major Longstaff's curiosity and desire for further information that he has decided to return in September, accompanied by his guide, to continue his explorations.

EASILY ACCESSIBLE

A feature of further peculiar interest in connection with the report is the easy accessibility of the abutting country. Within a few hours, traveling by the P.C.E. to Skalkah, Seton Lake, and thence by closed car over fifty miles of well-built roads, the investigators reached the comfortable camp where they slept each night during their exploration of the district. But this was the very outskirts of civilization. Man's interest had apparently penetrated no farther west than the point where it was found profitable to probe for precious metals. There are several mines and prospectors' claims on the very edge of the unknown area, but curiosity as been transmuted into spadework at this line, and no trails have been pushed beyond. The exploration of the icefield has been stopped by dangerous crevasses.

The map gives plenty of details of the country up to the place where the mines are being worked, and all the area abutting east, north and south of the unexplored territory. But of this area, lying between 50:02 and 51 degrees North, and 123 and 124 degrees West, geographers evidently know practically nothing. It is unurveyed and uncharted land, and little information is available either from Government or other sources concerning its geology, topography, fauna, flora, or other general characteristics.

From an elevation of about 8,000 feet on Mt. Ferguson, Major Longstaff succeeded in getting some photographs of sections of the mysterious country, and he will devote the next two months to studying topographic maps and pictures of the surrounding mountains and valleys with a view to exploring the area next September. His present plan is to go up to Taylor Pass and thence up to the head of Bridge River, making his base camp probably at some point near there.

CARAVAN PARTY NEAR CLOSE OF NORTHERN TOUR

record the event. It has been a notable trip, in which not only a variety of wonderful scenery has been viewed, but one that permitted the businessmen from across the International Border to view many of the undeveloped resources of British Columbia.

Particularly were the visitors delighted with the incidents of Friday, when they were entertained as guests of the big stampee at Williams Lake. There they were enabled to obtain an insight into the possibilities of the great cattle industry that is today the backbone of Cariboo and Chilcotin districts. In the evening they were privileged to attend the colorful stampee ball, the great social event to which cowboys from the distant ranges look forward to for months. The mad whirl of the dance continued from 8 o'clock in the evening until 5 o'clock Saturday morning. Cowboys in beaded buckskin shirts and girl riders in gay colors danced throughout the night with unaffected delight.

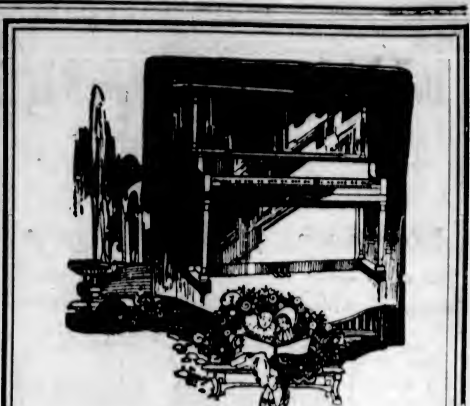

Saturday morning the caravan party made an early start from the sleeping cars in which they were forced to sleep owing to all hotel accommodations having been reserved months ago for the stampee. Luncheon was enjoyed at the Servent-Four-Mile House, one of the historical stopping places on the Cariboo Road.

Heard the members of the party were delighted to make the acquaintance of Miss Cunningham, one of the most famous girl riders of the West, whose trophies filled one side of the big dining-room. Miss Cunningham did not ride this year at the Williams Lake stampee, but will appear at the Prince George races and also at the famous stampee at Green Lake, which is rapidly acquiring the reputation of being one of the best rodeos in the West.

MODAVIA ARRIVES

The Donaldson Line freighter Modavia, from the United Kingdom, via Panama, arrived at the Ribbier piers at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, to unload general cargo before proceeding to Vancouver.

Garden Party Held
A successful garden party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. Woodward, 1587 Fairfield Road, yesterday afternoon under the auspices of the Fairfield United Church W.A. The ice cream, candy and other stalls were well patronized, also the various games provided. Afternoon tea, served by Mrs. R. E. Hopkins and her committee in the beautifully decorated and spacious rooms, attracted many guests, while later in the evening a cafeteria supper served on the lawn proved most attractive. The excellent programme which was carried out during the afternoon and evening was arranged by Mrs. Jackson and Mrs. Percy, the following artists taking part: Recitations, Audrey Nixon; vocal duets, Billie Inglis and Kenneth Cave; solos, Mr. Townsend and Mr. O'Connor. A Russian dance put on by girls of the St. James Douglas School, under the direction of Miss Duncan, and the Irish jig by a class of smaller girls from the same school, directed by Miss Smith, were well received.

Popular Teacher Married Last Night

The wedding took place last night in the Oak Bay United Church, Rev. W. A. Guy officiating, of Miss Margaret Anne Brynjolfsen, one of Victoria's popular young teachers, younger daughter of the late Mr. E. Brynjolfsen and Mrs. Brynjolfsen, 1319 Newport Avenue, to Mr. John Murdoch MacLeod, third son of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. MacLeod, of Glenarry, Ontario. For the occasion, the church had been beautifully decorated with sprigs and garlands of flowers in pastel shades. Arches had been placed across the central aisle, and the pulpit had been covered with flowers. During the ceremony the bride and groom stood between tall standard baskets filled with blooms and trailing greenery. The choir was in attendance, and as the bride entered the church on the arm of her brother, Mr. Edward Brynjolfsen, by whom she was given in marriage, the hymn, "The Voice That Breathed O'er Eden," was sung.

She was a lovely picture in her wedding gown of eggshell satin, fashioned in princess lines, with a bodice deeply shirred at the waist, and a full flared skirt with a cascade of material down one side, and finished at the waist with a large silk poppy. Her veil of embroidered tulle was worn with a wreath of orange blossoms across her forehead, and she carried a bouquet of Ophelia roses, pale pink carnations and pink sweet peas tied with pink tulle.

There were two attendants, Mrs. W. B. Ramsell, in a smart gown of shell pink nylon cut in long slender lines with a cape collar, and a hat of mohair to match, and Mrs. M. L. Rumball, wearing a frock of Nile green crepe de Chine with a knife-pleated cape collar and hat en suite. They both carried bouquets of mauve and pink sweet peas and ivory gladioli tied with green tulle. The best man was Mr. Charles Erington, of Britannia, and the ushers were Messrs. R. Rumball, Stephen and Harold Brynjolfsen. Mrs. McCoy Jamieson sang during the signing of the register.

A reception was held later at the home of Mrs. Alice Drake, Waldron Apartments, Burdett Avenue, where rooms had been most attractively arranged with standard baskets of blue delphiniums, pink Canterbury bells and sprigs and bouquets of roses.

A four-tier wedding cake, topped with a miniature arch and bell, and two tall mauve arch and bell, stood on a small table in the dining room, and supper was served from a table beautifully arranged with roses, delphiniums and lighted white four pink candles in silver holders. Assisting with the refreshments were Mrs. M. L. Olson (Duncan), Miss Eileen MacLeod and Miss Doris Newcomer.

Mr. and Mrs. MacLeod left by the midnight boat for Vancouver, en route to Eastern Canada, where they will visit for about six weeks in Glenarry, Montreal and Niagara and other places of interest. The bride traveled in a smart suit of brown wool crepe, flecked with white, and a blouse with a shawl collar and a small cloche hat of moiré ribbon to match. On their return they will make their home at Britannia, B.C.

Among the beautiful gifts received were a tray of Community silver from the staff of the Britannia Mine, of which the groom is a member; a linen tea cloth from the staff at Oaklands School, of which the bride had been a member; a silver rose bowl from the C.G.I.T. group, and a tall silver vase from the choir of the Oak Bay United Church, and an oil painting from the Sunday school staff, of which she was a member.

ST. LUKE'S PICNIC
Arrangements have been made to hold the Sunday school picnic of St. Luke's Church, Cedar Hill, on Monday afternoon next. The bus will leave St. Luke's Hall at 1:30 and proceed to Beaver Lake.

The monthly meeting of the British Columbia Provincial Rabbit Breeders' Association will be postponed until Tuesday, July 8, so as not to clash with the Dominion Day holiday.

Teacher Marries Kamloops Man

Charming in every detail was the wedding solemnized yesterday afternoon at St. John's Church, when Rev. Canon Chadwick performed the marriage service for Dora Alice, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Rogers, and Joseph, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. M. Furiak, of Kamloops, B.C.

Entering the church on the arm of her father to the strains of the "Wedding March," played by Mr. Jennings Burnett, the bride was a radiant picture in an ensemble of champagne Canton crepe with a hat of lace and organdie to match. She carried an arm bouquet of cream roses and pale pink carnations.

Miss Gladys Elliott was bridesmaid, wearing a lovely frock of "Say, can't you see that commercial vehicles aren't allowed on this street?" Yes, sir, when you violate traffic rules, you get "called," don't you?

delphinium blue georgette with beige lace and hat of mohair and lace in the popular off-the-face model. She carried an arm bouquet of blue and pink delphiniums.

Little Velda Doreen Willie, niece of the bride, was a dainty flower girl in a French frock of Nile green flat crepe, made in the long-waisted style with short flare and streamers of silver ribbon falling from the shoulders. With this was worn a French organdie hat in the new corn shade. She carried a colonial bouquet of mauve and pink sweet peas.

Mr. John Furiak, brother of the groom, was best man, and the ushers were Masters Gerald and Clyde Bishop, small nephews of the bride, in cream suits.

During the signing of the register, Mr. Farmer sang "For You Alone."

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Fred Willie, 2511 Quadra Street, where the bride's mother, wearing a lido blue georgette and lace dress with hat of cream lace and organdie, and Mrs. Willie in a patou brown printed crepe with mauve hat of stitched straw, received the many guests who gathered to tender congratulations to the young couple.

Refreshments were served in the dining-room from a table centred with a silver basket filled with pink roses and pale and green and pink candies in silver holders.

The Misses Claire Allan, Winnifred Elliott, Gem Keown, Ira Hall, Edith Bowden, Dorothy Thomas and Doris McMorran assisted in serving.

Amid showers of rice and confetti Mr. and Mrs. Furiak left by motor for Seattle and Portland, where the honeymoon will be spent. They will make their home in Kamloops.

The bride traveled in a reseda green dress and hat with coat of camel hair tweed.

The bride was a popular school teacher in Victoria.

Claims Missions Helped Aviatix On Great Flight

Happy Blending of Both Streams of Scottish Presbyterians in First Working Assembly at Edinburgh—Commissioners Consider Possible Revision of Westminster Confession

Henry Ford Reads Bible And Is Church Member

HOW foreign missions ensured the safety of Miss Amy Johnson, the British lone girl flyer, when she landed among the one-time cannibals of Timor, of the Malay Archipelago, is advanced by a distinguished aviator, Rev. T. Crouther Gordon, who himself holds the Distinguished Flying Cross. Writing in The Scots Observer Mr. Gordon recalls the anxiety that was felt when the news came that Miss Johnson had dropped down in such an unfavorable, and perhaps dangerous spot. Grave fears were entertained. As a matter of fact she had grave fears herself, for she says, "When I landed at Timor it was dark, and I had a fright when suddenly a lot of black men ran out from the huts with knives, swords and spears, but they were good to me, and though they could not speak English I heard the one word 'pastor,' from which I guessed there was a mission there. Then one of them took me by the hand and led me over miles of country to a church, and there to my great relief I found the pastor."

MISSIONS HELPED FLYER
The foreign missionary had paved the way for the aviator. His work in that district is recited in the Encyclopedia Britannica in this short but pregnant sentence: "Christianity is making rapid headway and has succeeded under Dutch rule in extirpating cannibalism, piracy, slavery, headhunting and inter-tribal fighting. Commenting on the unexpected result of the mission, Mr. Gordon writes: "It is no exaggeration to say that if the Church had not been there before Miss Johnson, that native would have taken her back in a very different fashion. It was as if the return was coming back to mankind for all the blood and tears of missionary martyrdom. She has proved that the good deeds of brave Christians of last century come back to their children to glorify and bless them."

CHURCH STREAMS BLEND
Crowded uncomfortably by the host of commissioners of the former Free Church Hall in Edinburgh housed the notable gathering of the first working assembly of the united Church of Scotland held during the week beginning May 2. While on the one hand the hall was an unfamiliar meeting place for those of the former established church, still greater innovation for those of the former United Free Church was the King's Lord High Commissioner, sitting in state in the above newly made for him, and the players playing outside, a delightful blending is reported of these two streams which had taken different channels in 1843, the time of the historic Disruption.

In his review at the close, the Moderator, Dr. Andrew Bogle, spoke of the absence of sectional divisions in the Assembly gathering and also hinted at further union with other Presbyterian churches. The possibilities of revision of the church's creed, the Westminster Confession of Faith and the Catechism, will be explored. Church extension and church restriction are to go hand in hand. Fewer ministers in the sparsely populated districts and more ministers in the thickly populated areas: much reorganization work will be required, it is stated.

Appropos of creed revision, the Christian World in its column "Fifty Years Ago," recalls the great controversy associated with Professor Robertson Smith regarding the authorship of the first five books of the Bible. When the motion in the Free Church Assembly of May, 1880, was passed by the slender majority of six, the multitude sprang to the air and a cloud of handkerchiefs fluttering from the galleries indicated the direction in which the sympathies of the Free Church ladies had been turned.

Mystery and Romance Mingle in Presentation

"Sweethearts and Wives" Stars Billie Dove in Role of French Maid at Capitol—Clive Brook Is Cast in Part of English Detective

MINGLING comedy, drama, and mystery in succession, "Sweethearts and Wives" comes to the Capitol Theatre tomorrow for a three days' engagement and establishes a record as one of the fastest-moving and most amusing light domestic dramas of the year.

Billie Dove, whose forte is her beauty, steps out of that role long enough to take the role of a French maid in a mysterious inn. Billie demonstrates another of her distinguished talents by speaking French perfectly throughout. Clive Brook adds to his laurels by giving a well high perfect characterization as an English detective who specializes in fashionable divorce cases.

The story takes place at a French inn. Blackmer, in the role of an American, who specializes in feminine conquests, is making love to the wife of a friend during a night motor ride. Their car breaks down. He and the girl, Lelia Hyams, take shelter in a nearby inn. The inn has been opened for the night only, at the instigation of a pair of crooks. The latter are attempting to obtain possession of a diamond bracelet which has been obtained by blackmail from an English woman. The blackmailer has agreed to return it here. Meanwhile the woman's husband, seeking divorce evidence, wants the bracelet in order to prove that his wife had had a rendezvous with another man. The husband therefore engaged the English divorce detective to try to get it as part of the evidence.

The mystery deepens when the blackmailer is murdered by the crooks, who take Blackmer's car in which to escape. The police arrive shortly afterward. Meanwhile to save the maid at the inn (Billie Dove), who protests her innocence, and in an endeavor to prevent her husband from discovering her rendezvous with Blackmer, the wife (Lelia Hyams) is forced to change places with the maid.

EXTRAVAGANZA AT PLAYHOUSE

"Let's Go Places" Is Picture of Hollywood, With Revealing Glimpses of Film Capital

Now's your chance to see what Hollywood's really like. Revealing glimpses of the celluloid capital—its glitter and its gaiety, its studios and restaurants, its fun and frolic—form the setting of "Let's Go Places," the Fox Movietone musical extravaganza which begins a three-day showing at the Playhouse Theatre tomorrow.

Many of these backgrounds, such as the forefront of Grauman's Chinese Theatre, are among the show spots of the film metropolis, while others, are purely imaginary but none the less entertaining. Directed by Frank Strayer has injected plenty of comedy and sparkling melody into his rapid-fire story, and has also introduced two ballet sequences of extraordinary novelty, the "Parade of the Blues" and the "Snowball Man." The story itself concerns a youthful tenor and his over-enthusiastic manager, who come to the film capital in an effort to "crash the gates" of screen fame.

Joseph Wagstaff as the young tenor and Lelia Hyams as the screen star enact their roles excellently, as do the other co-featured players, consisting of Frank Richardson, Dixie Lee, Sharon Lynn, Walter Catlett, Charles Judels and Ilka Chase.

AUDIENCE TO SEE FLORODORA GIRL

Marion Davies Reaches New Triumphs in the New Musical Romance at the Coliseum

Marion Davies reaches new triumphs in "The Florodora Girl," her new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer talking-and-singing feature which opens tomorrow at the Coliseum Theatre. In the new musical romance, Miss Davies brings to us quaint recollections of those charming days when the famous Florodora girls were holding down the front pages as well as the stage of the old Casino Theatre.

The story, an original by Gene Markey, is endowed with a sweetness distinctly refreshing and replete with comedy that takes us back to beer gardens, horseshoe buggies, roughhouse football matches and Bowery brawls. The picture is capably directed by Harry Beaumont, who preserved an atmosphere of sincerity throughout the action. His reproduction of the "Tell Me Pretty Maiden" number, filmed in Technicolor, is beautiful and spectacular.

Lawrence Gray, who made his debut opposite Miss Davies in "Marianne" again appears in the leading masculine role in her new picture, playing the part of the Fifth Avenue blade who wooes the Florodora girl.

WALTER O'KEEFE IN 'RED HOT RHYTHM'

New Screen Find Is Presented at Columbia in Suitable Vehicle

That fickle dame, "Recognition," has again reached out her hand to thrust Walter O'Keefe toward the road of fame, making him what is commonly termed an overnight find. In the Pathe all-dialogue production "The Sophomore," he impersonated the announcer, Graham McNamee. His name was not included in the programme billing.

It was not the intention of Pathe to hide O'Keefe's light under the proverbial "bushel." The second production in which he will appear is "Red Hot Rhythm." This picture afforded O'Keefe even more latitude to display his talents as he boasts six musical numbers, all composed by him with the assistance of his writing partner, Bobby Dolan. In the picture he plays the part of a song plugger in Tin Pan Alley, an environment with which he is thoroughly familiar.

O'Keefe plays the second male lead in this picture, supporting Alan Hale and E. Thryn Crawford. Leo McCarey, who directed "The Sophomore," also handled "Red Hot Rhythm." It will be presented at the Columbia Theatre tomorrow.

"Mamba" to Be Shown Soon at the Playhouse Theatre

Josef Swickard, one of the best known character actors of the screen, is playing the role of a German Count in Tiffany's all-talking, all-Technicolor feature production entitled, "Mamba." In this picture he is the father of Eleanor Boardman, featured with Jean Hersholt and Ralph Forbes.

"Mamba" is the attraction coming to the Playhouse Theatre on July 7.

Walter Huston Is Secured by United Artists

Walter Huston is under contract to United Artists, as was announced several weeks ago, following a preview of his work for that company in "Abraham Lincoln." It is true that he is to do certain pictures for First National, and that there is a contract covering these pictures, but United Artists have prior rights on his screen activity.

HOLLYWOOD STARS HAVE FAVORITES

Mary Pickford is Janet Gaynor's favorite actress, Lillian Gish is Mary Pickford's favorite, Douglas Fairbanks is the one Maurice Chevalier likes best, Greta Garbo has admirers in Nancy Carroll and Ann Harding, Gloria Swanson is the star William Haines admires most, Charlie Chaplin has a fan in Gary Cooper, Douglas Fairbanks thinks Junior has them all stopped, and Ruth Chatterton still swears by Emil Jannings.

Grace Kingsley, in the current issue of The New Movie Magazine, tells these few among many other choices of Hollywood's stars.

Horace Greeley, who always insisted that the word "news" was plural, once wrote to a reporter: "Are there any news?"

The reply came by wire: "Not a new."

Hilarious Situations Mark New Haines Talking Film

"The Girl Said No" Is Story of College Graduate's First Encounter With Business World—
Leila Hyams Supports Star at Dominion

LOVE and laughs, romance and high finance, mingle in a rapid-fire blend of hilarity and heart throbs in William Haines' latest and one of his most ambitious pictures, "The Girl Said No," his all-talking Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer vehicle, now playing at the Dominion Theatre. The picture has Haines as a chap fresh from college, with a diploma and a bagful of "wise-cracks." The plot depicts his adventures trying to get his first job and his early struggles with the world of business and competition.

It's a cross section of the college graduates of the country. He starts fresh, to be tamed by responsibility and hard work. Poignant drama, heart throbs and a charming romance mingle with thrills and laughs. It's one of the closest things to real life the screen has given the theatre and it's great entertainment.

One of the spectators at a football match had his pocket picked. As the thief was bolting, he collided with and escorted him to a policeman.

"You say this man stole your watch," said the policeman. "What distinguishing feature was there about the watch?"

"It contained a sweetie's photograph," replied the man.

"Ah, I see! A woman in the case."

Stomach Troubles of Ten Years Yield to New Treatment; Gains 10 Pounds

"I suffered ten years with as bad a case of stomach trouble as any man ever had. It was impossible for me to enjoy a meal on account of indigestion and an uncomfortable, bloated feeling after meals. A times

I would get weak and dizzy, like I was going to faint, and it took every bit of my will power to keep going. My liver was sluggish and my whole system was filled with poisons. I would wake up in the mornings dead tired, and my back ached so, I could hardly pull myself out of bed. I was terribly run down, my skin was an unhealthy color and I didn't seem to have any strength or energy at all.

"Five bottles of this wonderful Sargon made me feel like a new man. I've gained over ten pounds and my stomach trouble has disappeared. I am rid of that backache, and I've got as much strength and vitality as I had twenty years ago; my blood pressure is back to normal and my whole system is in healthy condition.

"I've never found a laxative to equal Sargon Soft Mass Pills. They stimulated my liver and regulated me perfectly. It's a real pleasure for me to recommend the Sargon treatment."

The above statement was made recently by Robert A. Strate, prominent business man of Oklahoma City, Okla., who is owner and general manager of the Bakery Equipment Co., 2 North Dewey St., and is probably the most successful jobber of complete equipment for bakeries in the state. Mr. Strate lives at 425 West 24th St.

Sargon may be obtained in Victoria and Vancouver from all Owl Drug Stores and in New Westminster from the Bew's Drug Co. (Adv't.)

Homes of Beauty & Comfort

Roseland Is One-Story House With Special Features

Exterior Sparkles With Vitality—Well-Balanced Window Openings Give Grace to Structure—Suitable for Family of Moderate Size—Exceptional Conveniences Mark Kitchen

Interior Arrangements Are Carefully Designed

HERE is a five-room cottage of unusual design. The family who prefers to live in a home which is complete on one floor will find the Roseland, illustrated in adjacent columns, to their liking. The exterior lines are attractive with their combination brick and stucco siding. The interior is laid out to meet the demands of the average family. The home is equipped with those conveniences that make a universal appeal—fireplace, built-in kitchen cabinets, modern bathroom fixtures and plenty of closet space.

NOT EXPENSIVE
This little home is not expensive. It can be constructed by the average family. It is twenty-six feet by thirty-seven feet in dimensions and will fit admirably on the average-size building lot.
An important factor to be considered is the livability of the Roseland. That this house has actually been built and has met the approval of a critical household is evidence that the plans are right. Any family which desires a home all on one floor can use the plans of the Roseland with assurance that their home will be convenient and comfortable. The average one-story house is a nondescript affair. It is but one of many apparently cast in the same mould. The exterior lines are conventional and commonplace.
Yet here is a house with an exterior that sparkles with life. The combination brick and stucco walls meet the approval of the most fastidious. The arched doorway with red tile insets overhead presents a focal point that readily catches the eye. The well-balanced window openings at each side of the gabled entrance are of pleasing proportions. This home is a far cry from the average five-room bungalow. Its general exterior lines are so different.

The interior arrangements are just as satisfactory as the exterior is attractive.

From a vestibule, with a guest closet, the visitor enters the living-room, nineteen feet long and eleven feet three inches wide. At one end of this room is a large fireplace with a brick hearthstone. Bracketed lights on each side of the fireplace aid in ornamenting this end of the room.

Immediately to the rear is the dining-room with its two built-in china closets, each in a corner of the room. The dining-room is cheerful, being lighted by two sliding windows at the side wall.

In the rear wall of the room are two doors, one leading to the kitchen, the other to the attic above. The attic has not been finished off and is not designed for use, although a rambling room could be finished off if desired.

HANDY KITCHEN

The layout of the kitchen is most desirable, as everything has been placed with the convenience of the housewife in mind. Across one side of the room is the set of pantry shelves with a window in their centre and a work table beside the window.

The sink occupies one corner of the room, and the stove is nearby. Circulation is provided by air circulation, so desirable in such a room as this, where cooking may keep the interior hot.

SLEEPING UNIT

The two sleeping chambers and the bathroom form a unit by themselves. It is always desirable to place this little group of rooms together, especially in a home where all of the rooms are on one floor.

A narrow hall serves the three rooms, providing privacy to anyone who desires to step from the chamber to the bath and vice versa. The chambers are of medium size. The front sleeping room is thirteen feet four inches by eleven feet in dimension, while the other is approximately eleven feet square.

The bath is a compact little room with a number of built-in features. It contains a linen closet with ample space for towels. In the hall outside is another closet to receive the bedding used in the two chambers.

BASEMENT

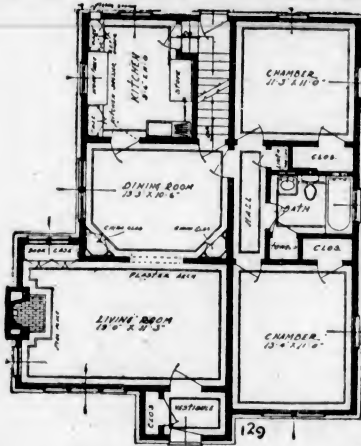

The basement is reached by a stairway leading from the kitchen. The floor of the basement has been entirely concreted so that it is always dry.

The heating plant is located to the front, while the fuel bin has been placed just to its rear. A hot-water tank has been placed nearby. Facilities are provided for the laundry work of the household. Two tubs with hot and cold water set near a window. A drain is near at hand.

Electric lights have been placed at each part of the basement so that ample lighting is always available.

The footing and foundation walls of the Roseland are concrete. The walls of the house are insulated with seven-sixteenth-inch wall-board.

LAW CLERK OF SENATE DIES

Mr. J. G. A. Creighton, 86, Drops Dead in Ottawa Club—Held Post for 48 Years

OTTAWA, Ont., June 28.—Mr. J. G. A. Creighton, C.M.G., K.C., law clerk of the Senate, dropped dead in the Rideau Club early this evening. Mr. Creighton had just entered the club when he collapsed. A doctor who was hurriedly called said he had expired from heart trouble.

Mr. Creighton, who was eighty years old on June 12, had been law clerk of the Senate forty-eight years, having been appointed in 1882. He had also been Parliamentary counsel of the Senate since 1907.

He was born in Halifax in 1850 and was educated at Halifax Grammar School and Dalhousie University. After he had graduated from the latter institution in 1868 with honors, he was employed as an engineer in surveys and construction work on the Intercolonial Railway, the Lachine Canal, and other public works until 1877.

From then until 1880 he studied law and practiced journalism in Montreal. In that year he was graduated from McGill University and appointed to the bar, going to the Senate two years later.

PICKNICKERS DROWNED

FORT WILLIAM, Ont., June 28.—Two picknickers were drowned yesterday when they slipped from a log boom on the Upper Kaministiquia River and were carried under the boom. They were Eric Partridge, twenty-one, and Louise Toboni, twelve, of Fort William. A companion, Margaret Toboni, nineteen, also fell into the water but clutched a chain from the boom and was saved.

Margaret, seeing her sister and friend carried downstream by the swift current, became faint and reached shore in a state of collapse, only after a long struggle along the boom. She staggered to a farmhouse, whose residents notified the police. Dragging operations are under way, but the bodies have not been recovered.

Make Your Home "LIVE!"

There's a world of difference between just a HOUSE and a real HOME.

A Home seems to live—to have an atmosphere and an individuality of its own.

Some houses never seem to become real homes. You can make your Home "live" through the intelligent application of ELECTRIC SERVICE for lighting and for all other routine domestic tasks.

Provide in your plans for "complete electric service." We'll gladly and freely consult with you.

GANDHI CAPS TABOO WITHIN MADRAS AREA

Paraders Ridicule Simon Report, by Dressing Up Donkey, Before Burning Document

DEFIANCE RIGHT IN SUMMER CAPITAL

(Associated Press)

BOMBAY, June 28.—The Gandhi campaign against the use of British cloth, involving picketing of shops and the spinning of cotton on small native spinning wheels, today was challenged by authorities in the Madras Presidency.

Government agents prohibited the wearing of the Gandhi caps—white cotton head coverings adopted as the Nationalist symbol—and acted against the use of the wheels. The spinning wheel has been one emblem of the Mahatma. When interned in Yeroda prison at Poona he took along his small wheel, and thousands of his followers when bailed in a march by the police, have sat down in the road and spun briskly to pass the time.

So industriously have the Gandhists spun that their output for individual use, coupled with their picketing of shops, has seriously injured trade in British cloth.

HOUSE-TO-HOUSE CANVASS

The boycott of British goods in Madras Presidency is said to be increasing with Nationalists planning to begin a house-to-house campaign tomorrow. At Ahmedabad, 108 picketers were arrested around the Gujarat College, but police agreed after a conference with Vallabhbhai Patel, Nationalist leader, not to interfere in the future with peaceful picketing of the college. The arrangement is said to be the first of its kind between police and the Nationalists.

Venkateswarai Tiwary, Liberal politician, and five others of the Zamindar (land-owning class) today were sentenced to six months' rigorous imprisonment at Lucknow.

DONKEY REPORT

Simla, the Summer capital, was the scene of a demonstration against the Simon report today. Thousands of Indian followed a donkey garbed in foreign clothes, an English hat over its ears and a copy of the Simon document on its back, through the streets to the grain market. Three Hindus and six Sikhs spoke against the report, and then the volume was burned.

When parking in a storm always point the car away from the direction of the downpour of rain. This will prevent the ignition from getting wet.

SCALING SHOWS SLIGHT DECREASE

Timber Production Compared With May, 1929, but Is Decrease on April, 1930

While the scaling of timber in the province for May follows rather closely the figures for the same month in 1929, it shows a reduction in the quantity passed upon as compared with the preceding month of April. The total scaling for the present season, while it has been quite close to what it was at the same time last year, shows a slight decrease.

For the month of May, 1930, the scalings showed the following amounts: 2,456,957 feet board measure; 2,584,544 lineal feet; 12,720 cords, and 241,507 hevn ties.

For the same month of last year the figures were: 2,427,556 feet board measure; 2,794,033 lineal feet; 13,427 cords, and 369,823 hevn ties.

When compared with April, 1930, the figures show the following: 2,753,357 feet board measure; 1,383,978 lineal feet; 1,380 cords, and 391,215 hevn ties.

The scaling which has been done from the beginning of the year when compared with that for the same period in 1929 shows the following: 1,006,743,116 feet board measure in 1930 and 1,024,536,612 in 1929; 9,712,945 lineal feet in 1930 and 10,631,580 in 1929; 52,015 cords in 1930 and 70,748 in 1929; and 1,097,898 hevn ties in 1930 and 1,725,227 in 1929.

Gasoline Waste

Gasoline waste, to many drivers means only that which might leak out of the tank or carburetor. Yet many gallons of fuel are wasted daily without a drop being spilled. Anything which tends to cut down the mileage may be classed as gasoline waste. One missing cylinder in a four-cylinder engine means a power loss equal to one quarter of each gallon of gasoline. The use of an incorrect or inferior oil in the engine results in excess friction, which means more gasoline per mile. Excessive or incorrect use of the brakes, excessive use of the choke, under-inflation of the tires and incorrect carburetor adjustment, all have the same or greater effect as spilling some of the gasoline each time the tank is filled.

DIRTY LICENSE PLATES

Because numerals on 1930 automobile license plates of Michigan are difficult to read at best, James Sprott, superintendent of police in Detroit, has ordered all members of the department to issue violation tags to all motorists whose plates are dirty.

FRANCE LEADS IN HIGHWAYS

Among European countries, France has the best network of roads for automobile travel, with a total length of 628,000 kilometers. Germany is next with 348,700 kilometers, while Great Britain, with a total of 287,800 kilometers, ranks third.

ELECTRIC WIRING TIPS OFFERED

Illuminated House Number Is Serviceable — Bell Ringing Transformer

The finishing touches to a house often make all the difference in the final comfort and convenience—the difference between a mere house and a real home. For instance, how many people think of providing for an illuminated house number, a serviceable day or night, and at night time it renders special service to callers, the doctor or messenger.

Another little item that is often overlooked is the installation of a bell-ringing transformer. A combination bell and buzzer may be installed in the kitchen with a button at the front door to operate the bell and a button at the back door to operate the buzzer. The bell-ringing transformer supplies current at low voltage to operate this convenience, and will continue to operate for a lifetime, without any thought or attention.

A foundation meter box should be installed so that the electric meter may be read from outside without the necessity of disturbing the busy housewife.

No layman—unless he be a genius—is competent to lay out the electric wiring for a really modern home. Such a task must be entrusted to someone who has made a careful study of wiring problems.

REAL ESTATE IN RELATION TO CALL FOR HOME BUILDING

Reports from Canadian cities to the National Association of Real Estate Boards show steadiness and not much change in real estate conditions in the Dominion generally. Every Canadian report stated that the ratio of supply and demand for the single family dwelling is normal. Another interesting 100 per cent figure reported by the Canadian cities is the figure on the rentals of centrally located offices; every Canadian report showed these rentals unchanged, sixty per cent of the Canadian cities reported their supply and demand ratio in apartments normal, twenty per cent reported a shortage in this type of property, and twenty per cent reported an over-built condition.

CHESS NEWS AND NOTES

England—The Scarborough Cor-

gress—An executive meeting of the

B.C.P. arranged June 23 to July

5 for the meeting of the six selected foreign players and six Britishers who are expected to benefit by the good practice when they meet the players of seventeen other nations in the Team Tournament of the International Federation at Hamburg

July 12 to 27.

The Ladies' Championship—It was arranged that in the event of the winner of the title not being willing or able to go to Hamburg to compete for the Women's World Championship, the nomination will apply to the second or to the third prize winners. The election of life members was announced of Nawab

Sir Umar Hayat Khan and Mir

Sultan Khan.

Scotland—The B.C.M. for June

gives the scores in the title match

as follows: W. Gibson (holder), 4;

Dr. R. C. Macdonald, 3; G. Page, 3;

Miss Gilchrist, 2; J. Gilchrist, 2;

I. Hamilton, 2. The excellent play of the British lady champion, Miss

Gilchrist, who only lost one game against five such strong players, was a particularly fine effort.

West of Scotland Championship—

W. Gibson also took this event after a great struggle. The leading scores follow: W. Gibson, 9½; D. Mac

Isaac, 9; J. A. McKay, 8½; H.

Walworth, 7½; C. Wardhaugh, 6.

Twelve completed. The Richardson

Cup, the most important Scottish trophy, has been won by Glasgow for the tenth time.

Australia—The Victorian Championship—The tournament resulted in a fine win for F. A. Crow, a success well deserved both by his enthusiasm and fine play, says The Australasian. The scores follow:

Crow, 9½; Stanes, 8; Gundersen,

7½; McIntosh and Rosenblum, each, 6½; Coultas, 6. Eleven completed. The paper has a very fine checker column, with games by W.

Stewart (world's champion).

New Zealand—The Wanganui

C.C. founded in 1880, is now in its jubilee year, and will celebrate with a more than usually attractive programme of matches.

The World's Championship—
After an exchange of letters with Jose R. Capablanca, challenger; Dr.
A. Alechin (world champion) has agreed to accept February 15, 1931, as the last date for a title match.
The champion contends that he did not receive a challenge to play in Cuba, and it now seems probable that a match will be organized early next winter in the United States, as Alechin maintains that under London rules he is justified in refusing to play in Cuba since he is a native of a northern country, and feels that the southern climate puts him to a disadvantage for the intellectual effort required for a great match. Alechin suggests Leonard

Tauber, president of the French

C.F., as treasurer and Dr. A. Rueb, president F.I.D.E., as umpire.

United States—Paul Morphy's

birthday, June 22, was fittingly celebrated by the first annual San Gabriel Valley Chess Carnival at

Sierra Madre. The programme called for team matches: Orange County vs. Pasadena Chess Club, simultaneous exhibitions for women and two half-hour lectures on Morphy's games, problem solving, etc. In England such festivals are held by many county associations, and are largely attended.—San Francisco Chronicle.

The Cable Match—The Boston C

S. Monitor says: "It is a singular tribute to Norman Whitaker that he has been able to arrange two cable matches with London, in each case holding the strong London team, which defeated Chicago and New York teams, with comparative ease, on even terms. His efforts have saved the Insull Trophy for future competition, for had London been successful in this match, it would have become hers permanently."

Boston Chess League—The Com-

mopolitan team won the league championship by a score of 11½-

2½; Harvard University, 10½-3½.

The league was organized twenty-eight years ago.

The Team Tournament at Hamburg—Frank J. Marshall, H. M.

Phillips, I. Kashdan, H. Steiner and

J. Anderson, the American team, will sail on July 3 on the Ss. New York, due to arrive at Hamburg on the 11th. Play will begin at nine o'clock the next morning. Julius

Chik will represent Czechoslovakia

Club.

Winding Swiss Railway

The Gornergrat Railway, Switzerland, Climbing From Zermatt to the Lofty Heights of the Gornergrat, Affording Glimpses of the Most Imposing Alpine Scenery.

Dinner will be the tournament director. He is chess editor of The Hamburger Fremdenblatt; has had a long experience in managing important tournaments, including those of Hamburg, 1905, 1910 and 1921; Oeynhausen, 1922; Frankfurt,

1923, and Duisburg, 1929. Miss Men-

In the actual bidding of the above deal, East obtained the Contract at three Clubs doubled, the bidding going: South, pass; West, one Diamond; North, one Heart; East, two

Clubs; South, pass; West, pass;

North, two Hearts; East, three Clubs; South, double; all pass. In the play, East made his contract, scoring 120 trick points, and thus game, for three Clubs doubled, and 100 honor points for making a doubled contract when vulnerable.

Very fine for East and West; but how about North who, in the bidding of this deal, had three opponents, namely East and West, who can make but three Clubs or 60 points, and South, who assisted East to a game contract by doubling three Clubs?

But this is not all. South, in addition to making a cowardly pass of two Clubs, and an atrocious double of three Clubs, had the af-frontory to criticize North for not taking out South's double with three Hearts.

Ridiculous. In the first place,

North has as much high card support for South's double as South has any right to expect; and, in the second place, North must assume that South would not double a contract of three Clubs unless absolutely sure of defeating such contract, counting upon North for but one defensive trick, if that.

Moreover, North cannot make three Hearts against perfect defence. He would lose one trick, or 100 points, the penalty for one undertick when vulnerable, against which East and West can score but 60 points, if undoubted.

But the worst is yet to come.

South, with the Ace and Queen of Clubs, King of Spades, Queen of Hearts and five Diamonds, can well
